VOL. XXIX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1901. 9 A M.

NO. 14

CRAB ORCHARD.

F. W. Jones is painting his store and is doing a good deal of the work himself.

James Johnson's house, just over the line in Rockcastle, burned with its contents Tuesday.

David Carpenter, who lived on Fall Lick, died very suddenly Tuesday. A wife and several children survive.

R. H. Bronaugh is training a half dozen or so fleetly baogtails, several of which promise to be record breakers.

It looks now as if Crab Orchard will have a sanitarium, with Dr. W. J. Edmiston one of the prime movers of the enterprise.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Pettus went to Louisville Wednesday. His friends here are glad that he had sufficiently recovered from his illness to make the trip.

Milton and Steve Estes, of this place, are two of 13 living children of John Estes and wife, of Lancaster, aged 77 and 74, respectively. All eight of the sons are blacksmiths. There has been only one death in the family.

The buildings at the Springs are being repaired and painted and in a few weeks Manager J. B. Willis will have things looking like they did when that grand old resort was in her palmy days. A good crowd of guests is expected this year.

"The ticket is such a strong one that I don't believe the republicans of the county will put up serious opposition," said Hon. Fontaine Fox Bobbitt to us. Mr. W. E. Perkins agrees with Mr. Bobbitt that the democratic ticket is an excellent one and a winner beyond doubt. There is no kicking or soreness in this end and there is no reason why our two precincts should not give an old time democratic majority.

KINGSVILLE.

The sick are improving. Daniel Hester sold his farm to a Mr. Grant for $500 cash.

A Mrs. Whyland, from Eubanks, is teaching a music class here of five or six pupils.

The canning factory will not run this year and in consequence a larger acreage of grain will be planted than usual. The continued cold weather, considering the season, is inauspicious for gardening; especially the delicate flowers.

The hotel was closed a day and a half while Mrs. Bettie Pennybacker and daughter, Miss Gertrude, were in Somerset. They have returned home.

Miss Annie McKee asked a class of very small boys: "What is the capital of the U. S.?" and one of the bright little fellows immediately answered "Kingsville," that being apparently the most important place he knows of.

Logan Walls, who recently built a comfortable new home, has rented it to Phil Delaney and moved with his family to your city, where he has found more profitable employment. John Green Walls was over from Stanford last week.

W. L. McCarty went to Frankfort Wednesday and will go thence to Louisville and Cincinnati to buy Spring goods galore. J. M. McCarty, lately returned from the city, is receiving daily shipments of spring goods. G. A. Walter will go to the cities soon to purchase spring goods, which though "last," will be by no means least in quantity or quality. J. W. Thompson will replenish his stock of drugs and notions.

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." It is a great pleasure to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be able to publish testimonials of this character. They show that great good is being done, pain and suffering relieved and valuable lives restored to health and happiness by this remedy. It is for sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION, NEW ORLEANS.—Low rates, one fare the round trip to New Orleans and return, is announced by the Queen & Crescent Route for May 7, 8 and 9, account Baptist convention as above. Tickets will be on sale one fare for the round trip. Finest trains in South are at the service of Queen & Crescent patrons. Ask ticket agents for particulars.

The Texas oil boom continues. Eighteen charters providing for the development of the oil fields in Beaumont and other counties aggregating a capital stock of $5,272,000 were filed with the secretary of State Wednesday at Austin. The incorporators are principally Eastern and Western magnates.

In Georgia $30,000,000 have been invested in cotton mills, one-third of which in the last few years.

ATLANTA.

The Gate City of the South Continuing to Forge to the Front.

It is a good deal like flying to breakfast in Atlanta, away down in Georgia, skimming through the State of Tennessee and reaching Stanford a long time before supper, but that's what I did Tuesday, including a buggy ride of 10 miles. The fast service of the Q. & C. and Southern enabled me to do it and its splendid accommodations made the trip seem somewhat like enjoying the delights of flowery beds of ease. These roads are excellently managed and their polite officials do all in their power to promote the comfort of their patrons.

Since I visited Atlanta six years ago, during its exposition, it has more than kept pace with the rapid age and continued to grow and expand. Many of its streets have been extended for miles and where forests then stood handsome residences and business houses now appear. The growth of Atlanta seems to be pretty well indicated by its sky scrapers. When a half score or so of years ago, the magnificent Equitable building was erected, it was the admiration and wonder of all the Southern country. A few years later the Austell, another office building, saw the Equitable's eight and went it one story more. The Prudential came next with 10 stories. The English and American followed with 11 and now the Empire, rapidly approaching completion, will eclipse them all with its 14 stories. Built on the hill near the post office, its towering summit can be seen for miles around. It will hardly be a seven-days' wonder, however, for some other man or set of men, will soon lay it in the shade, in the apparent effort to reach the home beyond the skies by the only route that seems feasible to the average Atlantan, who is too much absorbed in the acquisition of this world's goods to try to lay up treasures for the one, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal.

Not all Atlanta people are too much engaged in money making to seek a more perfect way. There are legions of people in the Gate City, who are not only trying to walk in the straight and narrow way, but are striving to show others how much better it is to seek first the Kingdom of Heaven and then have all other things added to them. Steered by my brother, who is a pupil, I found myself Sunday up against the imposing Trinity Methodist church, where most interesting Easter services were in progress by the Sunday school, which numbers regularly 700 attendants, but which on this occasion was swelled to over 1,000. A full orchestra furnished the accompaniment for the solos and songs by the whole school while the many caged birds in the appropriately decorated room united in making the air rich with melody. The recitations of the little tots, the efforts of the older pupils and the soul-stirring music combined to make the celebration a marked success, and showed earnest painstaking effort on the part of the teachers. The superintendent of this school is one of the owners and editors of the Constitution and there are those mean enough to comment on his rather anomalous position of teaching some children the way while others are crying his papers for sale on the street. But a newspaper man never gets credit for any good thing he does. In fact he is considered synonymous with sin and his reward, if he receives any, must come hereafter. He is denied it here.

One of the greatest attractions of suburban Atlanta is Grant Park, named in honor of its donor, who contributed 100 acres of valuable land to the city for park purposes. It is admirably adapted for the display of the landscape gardener's art, which has been beautifully brought into action. A lake for boating, sparkling cascades, love inducing walks, inspiring drives, automobiles, cages of wild animals, birds and other attractions, including cycloramas of famous battles of the civil war, go to make up a most attractive resort which is patronized by thousands of people on Sunday, who get no other chance to breathe the country air and spend a day in innocent enjoyment. Ultra religionists kick because the crowds go there instead of to the churches and listen to the band discourse secular, instead of sacred music, but there are others who believe that the Master was in earnest when he said that the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath, and do not say them nay. It is a singular fact that newspaper rivalry furnished the most valuable animals for the collection at Grant Park. The Constitution contributed a huge elephant. Not to be out done the Journal gave a pair of large lions. The News not desiring to be left presented something else and so on.

Three days could not have been spent more pleasantly than those I enjoyed in Atlanta, thanks to my brother, Mr. T. R. Walton, who planned and executed every scheme possible for my pleasure. By the way his Stanford friends and patrons will be glad to know that he is prospering very gratifyingly in the grocery business and becoming one of the bloated landlords, by profitable investments in real estate in the parts of town that at the time of their purchase looked like throwing money away. John S. Lee sold to W. C. Childers, of Grant county, 481 acres of land near South Fork, for $500 and bought of L. G. Gooch 90 acres near Waynesburg for $900.

J. C. Bailey bought of Louis Harris a sorrel gelding for $110. He is a fine coach horse and with Mr. Bailey's handling should be sold for double the money he cost.

The Kentuckian says that good mules sold at $120 to $175 at Paris Monday and that Fletcher Mann purchased of James Magowan, of Montgomery, a pair of mules for $550.

At J. B. McKinney's sale yesterday horses brought $40 to $100, calves $10 to $12.50, cows $21 to $29; 40 acres of knob land sold at $1. Farming implements sold well. The crowd was fairly good.

M. D. Elmore has a herd of thoroughbred Gentry Black Berkshire hogs. He sold to W. A. Tribble a male hog, six months old, for $9 and to Menefee Elmore one for $10 and has other males and females, mates to them, for sale. Two sows and 11 pigs of same herd for sale.

The American Agriculturist's corps of county observers carefully consolidated into State averages, show a condition of wheat higher than has been noted at this time in the past 10 years, with the exception of '91. The general average as reported for the whole belt is 95.5.

F. Reid sold to a Georgia man 12 Pedro heifer calves and yearlings for $600 and to a St. Augustine, Texas, party, a four months old Pedro bull calf for $40. These gentlemen visited a number of herds before they saw Mr. Reid's but only bought three of the animals. They complimented his herd very highly.

An immense crowd attended I. & G. S. Shelby's sale Wednesday and the total receipts of the day amounted to nearly $10,000. Yearling cattle brought 40c. calves 42c, yearlings $26.75, cows $27 to $40, bulls $35 to $86.50, two-year-old cattle 46c, sheep $4.60, horses $60 to $105, mules $35 to $80. Farming implements brought good prices. J. C. Lynn had charge of the dinner, which was a good one.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits." For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

The school-house location seems to be a hard problem for the good people to settle satisfactorily and at the same time all be suited and accommodated. Such lots as are desirable are hard to buy, on account of location. So it seems now that all will have to think what is best and act accordingly, though it may not be what they would like to have, or think they ought to have.

CHURCH MATTERS.

Sunday school will begin at Walnut Flat Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Baptists lead in numbers in Georgia and have over 2,000 churches. The Methodists are a close second.

The Kentuckian says that Rev. Caradine's meeting at Millersburg closed Monday. Not for years has such a revival wave swept over the Methodist church there. Numbers have been reclaimed, converted and sanctified and a large number have joined the church.

Up at Richmond the other night Ex-Govs Bradley and McCreary, who had been enemies for years, met in the Elks' lodge room, fell on one another's neck, kissed, buried the meat-ax and made up. The scene was applauded by the brethren, and as no fatted calf was at hand the lodge goat was duly slaughtered and a feast prepared. They are both good Elks, and members whom all the boys are very proud to call brother.—Lancaster Record.

WALTON'S CANDIDACY.—Editor W. P. Walton, of Stanford, is being boosted manfully by his brother newspapermen of the State in his candidacy for railroad commissioner.
